THE GARRET.

By THACKERAY.

This poem, often called "When We Were Twenty-one," is adapted from "Le Grenier" (the garret), by Berunger, Several omissions and one verbal change have been made for this edition. In Berunger's poem twenty is the period of life set, not twenty-one, and instead of Austerlitz, Beranger speaks of the battle of Jena. The battle of Austerlitz was fought December 2, 1895, at Austerland Austria-Hungary. The Russians and Austrians combined were terribly beaten by Napoleon. The battle of Jena was fought, at Jena in Germany, October 14, 1895, There Napoleon was also victorious.

Pierre Jean de Beranger, the great some writer of France, was born in Paris, August 13, 1789. He died there have who made and lost a fortune in speculation, in at one time was clerk to his father who made and lost a fortune in speculation, in the garret of which he has sug a famously he lived in alternate distress and comfort. His popularity with the wetsing classes was immense. His political posme brought down upon him the censure of the government, besides fine and imprisonment. In 1815 he was elected deputy, but acrost only a few days.

Other selections from Theckeray, his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch have aiready been pristed in this series.

7 ITH pensive eyes the little room I view, Where in my youth I weathered it so long, With one I loved, a stanch friend or two. And a light heart still breaking into song; Making a mock of life and all its cares, Rich in the glory of my rising sun, Lightly I vaulted up four pairs of stairs, In the brave days when I was twenty-one.

Yes, 'tis a garret, let him know't who will; There was my bed-full hard it was and small My table there-and I decipher still Half a lame couplet, charcoaled on the wall, Ye joys that Time hath swept with him away, Come to mine eyes, ye dreams of love and fun, For you I pawned my watch how many a day, In the brave days when I was twenty-one.

One jolly evening, when my friends and I Made happy music with our songs and cheers, A shout of triumph mounted up thus high, And distant cannon opened on our ears; We rise-we join in the triumphant strain-Napoleon conquers-Austerlitz is won-Tyrants shall never tread us down again,

In the brave days when I was twenty-one

Let us begone-the place is sad and strange; How far, far off those happy times appear; All that I have to live I'd gladly change For one such month as I have wasted here-To draw long dreams of beauty, love and power From founts of hope that never will outrun, And drink all life's quintessence in an hour-Give me the days when I was twenty-one,

WONDERFUL SCHEME

Ferreting Out of Case Shows an Ingenuity Almost Past Ordinary Comprehension.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) GREENSBORO, N. C., April 25 .- In the whiskey fraud trials in the United States Court here, government witnesses to-day gave testimony showing that North Carolina rectifying firms had received no shipments of packages by rattroad or express from reputed western distilleries, which had obtained stamps on low proof goods. Railroad and express agents, with records of offices from Reidsville and Milton, were examined, all showing no aliton, were examined, all showing no receipt of packages, but immense shipments.

The introduction of evidence connecting the defendants on trial with the business of numerous establishments, west and home plants in Milton and Reidsville, N. C., was begun. This was shown by records of hanks used by defendants, telegrams, business letters from purchasing firms, and various other transactions. DEVELOPING CASE.

It looks like the whole week will be taken up in developing the case for the government.

The ingenuity of the scheme, as the rment,

ingenuity of the scheme, as the unfolds, whether worked by defendor not, is almost beyond concepto unexpert comprehension. The ants or not, is almost beyond conception to unexpert comprehension. The ferreting out of the case and presenting indisputable proof of gigantic frauds by simple comparison of records in collectors offices in seven different States, following with the record of transactions with private business firms all over the United States, is an equal subject of marvel, that District Attorney Holton, unaided, could have unearthed it and followed every clew to its remotest source.

BIG FIRAUDS.

A careful calculation to-night, from the number of packages already shown by records to have been handled by the allied establishments, whether by defendants or not, foots up the surprising amount of one hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars revenue, the government has been defrauded out of in only one year's operations.

Enrollment at Church School.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ROWLAND, N. C., April 25.—Fayetteville Preshytery has been in session at Ashpole Church, near here, since Monday night. Twenty-six minisers and more than fifty ruling elders have been in attendance. Reports from the churches show gratifying progress, and the interest in Christian education is unabated.
The enrollment of students at the Presbytery's female college at Red Springs has reached three hundred and fifty.
Steps have been taken looking toward the establishment of a preparatory school for boys and girls in the western part of the territory covered by the Preshytery.
The following commissioners to the General Assembly, which meets in Mobile, Ala., May 18th, were ejected; Rev. H.
G. Hill, D. D., of Maxton; Rev. W. R.
Coppedge, of Rockingham; Mr. L. M.

shown we have displayed the same power quaintness that distinguishes all the season's styles, by having the yoke coming over the shoulder, and this, together with the stole ends, gives a truly '1839' air to the costume. The shirred bodies, which is quite full, is attached to the yoke and blouses slightly over a high girdle belt. The sleeve is the newest, contributing a most attractive feature to the waist. It is shirred on the inner side, thus taking up extra length there, and giving a trul, round pouching to the outer part of sleeve, it is attached to a deep part is shirred to match the waist, forming a drop shoulder effect, which is both pretty and modish. The skirt (6129) is one of the season's new styles and while it is full and in seven-gore sayle, the shapping is so cleverly bandled that there is no presence of gores in the made up garment. It is worn over a foundation skirt, which may be of lawn or silk. The model is quite simple to reproduce and is distinctively new. Any of the popular weaves will combine well to the mode. Not only silk and light-weight woolens, but the new wash materials as well are suited to the noded. A pretly development would be of champages creepe de chine, trimming

Tailored Garments At Half Price.

Commencing to-day-and including the swellest materials, in the nobbiest styles of the season—we present an occasion of intense interest to prospective buyers of fine Tailored Garments.

The reductions involve handsome costumes, dress skirts and walking skirts, in black, colors and mixtures, and the choice extends over a greater variety than you ever before picked from-at half price-this early in the season.

Figuring prominently amongst the costumes are such successfully fashionable creations as Eton Jackets and Eton Blouses, with a sprinkling of the popular loose front coats that are so much sought by conservative dressers.

The skirts are all of the wanted kinds—cuts that show the most style and materials that hold the greatest service.
